PLACEMENT & DIRECTION

Where to hang your Ajna

● North-East (Ishanya)

The corner of wisdom and clear thought — ideal in a study, home office or reading room.

● North

Sharpens the mind and supports sound, level-headed decisions.

● West

A steady, focused wall for a desk or workspace where concentration matters.

Best in a study, office or any room where you think, plan and decide. Hang at eye level on a plain, uncluttered wall so the bold contrast stays crisp.

KEY · SYMBOLISM & PRICING

Ajna · Lotus of Clarity

A hand-drawn spiral lotus mandala for clarity, focus & balanced judgement

1 The Open Ring

CENTRE

A single clear circle at the heart, empty inside — the uncluttered awareness that sees a situation as it truly is.

2 First Petals

INNER WHORL

The smallest petals hug the ring closely: the first clear thoughts that form when the mind settles.

3 The Checkerboard

ALTERNATING FILL

Black and white take strict turns, ring after ring: choices laid out plainly, with nothing blurred or hidden.

4 Spiral Arms

CURVING ROWS

Dark petals link into sweeping arms that turn around the centre — one line of thought followed all the way through.

5 Crossing Currents

COUNTER-SPIRAL

The arms read equally well turning either way — two viewpoints held at once, the balance behind good judgement.

6 Solid Petals

DEEP INK

Fully inked petals, firm and unhesitating — conviction, and the confidence to commit once the way is clear.

7 Open Petals

WHITE SPACE

Untouched petals sit between the dark ones — openness, listening, and room to change one's mind.

8 Widening Petals

GROWING OUTWARD

Each ring's petals are larger than the last — insight that starts small and grows steadily into understanding.

9 The Double Contour

FINE OUTLINES

Every petal is drawn with a precise double line — care, accuracy and attention to the edges of things.

10 The Lotus Rim

POINTED OUTER PETALS

Wide petals taper to clean points at the edge: the bloom complete, a decision made and at rest.
