PLACEMENT & DIRECTION

Where to hang your Padma

● North (Kubera)

The direction of wealth and opportunity — ideal on a north wall of the living room, office or cash counter.

● North-East (Ishanya)

Growth guided by wisdom: blessings that arrive steadily and stay.

● East

New beginnings and rising fortune — fresh energy for every venture.

Best in a living room, entrance hall or workspace where prosperity is welcomed in.
Hang at eye level, well lit, facing into the room rather than a door.

Padma · Bloom of Abundance

A hand-drawn layered lotus mandala for abundance, growth & good fortune

1 The Dark Seed

CENTRE BINDU

A solid dark core holding one point of light — the seed of intention from which everything in the piece grows.

2 First Shoots

INNER PETALS

Small, sharp petals bursting from the core — the first efforts, still tightly held, already reaching outward.

3 Teardrop Petals

DARK DROPS

Each petal in this ring cradles a single dark drop: fortune gathered and safely stored, one blessing at a time.

4 Scales of Plenty

FISH-SCALE FILL

Overlapping scale patterns, like coins or the scales of a fish — a classic sign of multiplying wealth and good luck.

5 Woven Lines

FINE HATCHING

Hairline strokes fill petal after petal — the patient, repeated work that turns small gains into a full harvest.

6 Nested Layers

RING UPON RING

Petals rise in layer after layer, each ring larger than the last: prosperity built steadily, never all at once.

7 Open Fans

SHELL MOTIFS

Fan-shaped shells unfold inside the outer petals like open palms — generosity, and wealth that flows because it is shared.

8 Heart Buds

SMALL HEARTS

Tiny heart-shaped buds nestle at the base of the outer petals — gratitude, the quiet root of lasting abundance.

9 Light & Shade

DARK SPANDRELS

Deep-inked spaces between the petals lift each layer forward — contrast that gives the bloom its depth and richness.

10 The Blooming Rim

OUTER PETALS

The outermost petals open widest, edged in shadow: a lotus in full bloom, abundance complete and radiating outward.
