PLACEMENT & DIRECTION

Where to hang your Vishuddha

● North-West (Vayavya)

The corner of air and communication — ideal in a meeting room, reception, studio or wherever you speak, teach or present.

● East

Confidence and new beginnings: supports a clear voice and the courage to be heard.

● North

Opportunity and connection — helps ideas travel and find the right listeners.

Best in an office, studio, reception or living room where conversation happens. Hang at eye level on a wide wall; the piece reads strongest with space around it and light from the front.

Vishuddha · Radiant Voice

A hand-drawn radial artwork for expression, confidence & clear communication

1 The Bright Origin

WHITE CENTRE

A single point of untouched paper where every ray begins — the quiet breath before a word is spoken.

2 Radiating Rays

DARK SPOKES

Bold spokes stream from the centre to every edge — the voice carried outward, direct and unwavering.

3 Feathered Strands

CURVED LINES

Between the rays, hundreds of fine curved lines ripple outward like sound waves — words moving through air.

4 Fan Bursts

NESTED ARCS

The strands gather into fan after fan, each nested in the last — a thought unfolding phrase by phrase.

5 Steady Rhythm

REPETITION

The same fan motif repeated across the whole surface — practice, and the confidence that comes from it.

6 Widening Fields

GROWING SPACE

The channels between rays open wider as they travel outward: reach, and a message that grows as it goes.

7 Light & Dark

ALTERNATION

Solid rays and lined fields alternate around the whole circle: speaking and listening in steady turn.

8 Edge to Edge

NO BORDER

The design fills the entire sheet with no boundary drawn — a message that reaches every corner of the room.

9 Depth of Field

PERSPECTIVE PULL

The rays converge so sharply that the centre seems to recede — the piece draws the viewer in, as a good speaker draws a room.

10 Woven Lines

FINE HATCHING

Thousands of hairline strokes, each drawn by hand — patience and precision behind every clear expression.
